TRADITION, MODERNITY AND POST-MODERNITY IN COMPARATIVE EDUCATION

Springer Science & Business Media This special double issue consists of a selection of papers presented at the Ninth World Congress of Comparative Education, held at the University of Sydney, Australia, in July 1996, on the theme of "Tradition, Modernity and Post-modernity in Comparative Education". Before presenting the selection, this introduction will first survey the changing discourse in comparative education over the past few decades and will argue that an unreformulated and uncritical postmodernity holds no greater promise in comparative education, than its uncritical modernist or tradition-oriented rivals. When Nicholas Hans (1949) cited Michael Sadler's early rationale for studying comparative education, it was within the context of a work which sought to identify the traditions that underlay national educational systems. This early work, together with others such as that by Isaac Kandel (1930) was predicated on the assumption of the importance of national character, of which education systems were an important component. Indeed from this perspective, the purpose of comparative education was not merely to analyse the "forces and factors" which produced differences among educational systems, but, implicitly at least, also "to discover the underlying principles which govern the development of all national systems of education" (Hans 1949: 5). Hans was preeminently an historian, of course (as was Kandel to an extent), and therefore saw comparative education first and foremost in this light.

THE IMPACTS OF LANGUAGE AND LITERACY POLICY ON TEACHING PRACTICES IN GHANA

POSTCOLONIAL PERSPECTIVES ON EARLY LITERACY AND INSTRUCTION

Routledge This text critically examines changes in Ghanaian language and literacy policy following independence in 1957 to consider its impacts on early literacy teaching. By adopting a postcolonial theoretical perspective, the text interrogates the logic behind policy changes which have prioritised English, local language, or biliteracy. It draws on data from interviews with teachers and researcher observation to demonstrate how policies have influenced teaching and learning. Dr Osseo-Asare's findings inform the development of a conceptual framework which highlights the socio-cultural factors that impact the literacy and biliteracy of young children in Ghana, offering solutions to help teachers combat the challenges of frequent policy changes. This timely monograph will prove to be an essential resource not only for researchers working on education policies, teacher education, and English-language learning in postcolonial Ghana but also for those looking to identify the thematic and methodological nuances of studying literacy and education in postcolonial contexts.

A NEUTROSOPHIC SIMILARITY APPROACH TO SELECTION OF DEPARTMENT FOR STUDENT TRANSITING FROM JSS3 TO SSS 1 CLASS IN NIGERIAN EDUCATION SYSTEM

Infinite Study Single-valued neutrosophic set has been of valued importance in multi-criteria decision making problems using similarity measure. Department selection for students moving from JSS to SSS class in Nigerian Education System is such an area where decision taking has been critical as the future career of a student depends of the choice of Department in SSS class. Neutrosophic similarity measure is proposed for this department selection.
