Next door lives Bella Bunny, a little blue bunny, who is very neat and tidy and is always wearing her little frilly apron. Her beach hut is blue and is number 2. Then there is Basil Bear, a green teddy bear, who lives in a green beach hut, number 3. He loves growing vegetables and flowers. Then there is Molly the Dolly, a cute ragdoll. She lives in number 4 which is pink, she likes home cooking. The ideas for the books are from childhood memories, cuddly toys my sisters and I had when we were young and the fun we had playing with them and taking them on holiday with us. Bo Bo was a teddy bear my younger sister had when she was two for Christmas - he was bigger than her. The first thing she said when she opened him Christmas morning was "Bo Bo!" She still has him to this day, he is now 46 years old! And is loved and cherished by her own children. The Girl in the Picture The Story of Kim Phuc, the Photograph, and the Vietnam War Penguin “More than any other Vietnam book in recent years, The Girl in the Picture confronts us with the ceaseless, ever-compounding casualties of modern warfare.” —The San Francisco Chronicle On June 8, 1972, nine-year-old Kim Phuc, severely burned by napalm, ran from her blazing village in South Vietnam and into the eye of history. Her photograph—one of the most unforgettable images of the twentieth century—was seen around the world and helped turn public opinion against the Vietnam War. This book is the story of how that photograph came to be—and the story of what happened to that girl after the camera shutter closed. Award-winning biographer Denise Chong’s portrait of Kim Phuc—who eventually defected to Canada and is now a UNESCO spokesperson—is a rare look at the Vietnam War from the Vietnamese point-of-view and one of the only books to describe everyday life in the wake of this war and to probe its lingering effects on all its participants. Womanhood in Anglophone Literary Culture Nineteenth and Twentieth Century Perspectives Cambridge Scholars

Author Dr. Kiana Nichelle Brown can relate to this truth in many ways: starting with her abusive childhood to a tumultuous marriage to single parenting to facing gender discrimination in the armed forces. These events were only enhanced by the constant ridicule she received for being an African American who seemed, to other African Americans, more Caucasian than her true race. However, despite the turmoil she has endured throughout her life, Dr. Brown sees that God has had His guiding hands leading her through each challenge and teaching her about His glory with each situation. Her new autobiography, Shelter Through the Valley: A Life in Gods Hands, presents to readers Dr. Browns story in chronological order, revealing the obstacles she had to overcome from loved ones and coworkers who defined who she became. Her life has been dominated by four major themes: childhood abuse, single motherhood, womanhood, and race. These are themes that she has tried to explore in the pages of this book by looking at her journey from a poor neighborhood in Texas to the Korean peninsula during her time as an officer in the armed forces. That journey taught her to live as a proud black woman and single mother. Shelter Through the Valley epitomizes the persistent plight of a woman determined to not be intimidated by others, especially those she loved, while setting an example that her daughter will be able to follow. The sharing of her life story presents herself as a woman who knew that God had more planned for her life, going on to achieve great dreams in academics, leadership achievements, and parenting. American Magazine The American Magazine The Examiner Children's Books in Print R.
